The recorder of deeds provides a single location in which records of real property rights are recorded and may be researched by interested parties. Documents regularly recorded by the recorder of deeds include deeds, mortgages, mechanic's liens, releases, and plats, among others. To allow full access to deeds recorded throughout the years, several indexes may be maintained, which include grantor-grantee indexes, tract indexes, and plat maps. Storage methods for registry entries include paper, microform, and computer.

As nouns the difference between deed and record is that deed is an action or act; something that is done while record is an item of information put into a temporary or permanent physical medium. As verbs the difference between deed and record is that deed is (informal) to transfer real property by deed while record is to make a record of information.
