PREFACE

Recent and Recommended books list is a guide to medical print resources and is designed to assist the following groups:

- College members who wish to identify books to read or to examine before purchase
- Those selecting books for hospital library collections

The list is based on purchases made by the College Library in the first three quarters of 2008. Canadian, American and British publications are included. We rely on our in-house scanning of title availability from a variety of medical publishing houses, associations and government sources for the selection of books.

Books worth consideration as part of a core collection in a community hospital setting are indicated with an asterisk (*). Often several texts within a subject area are so indicated as to provide a range of choices. Also, attempts are made to identify suitable inexpensive material appropriate for small hospitals and more costly choices for larger settings.

The College Library will purchase books on behalf of BC hospital libraries. Every effort is made to provide cost savings and savings in time and effort, including the following:

- Discounts received from book vendors are passed on to the hospital library. Because the College Library is a large volume purchaser, discounts can be as high as 20%. Only mailing and shipping charges are passed on to the purchaser.
- Acquisition services are provided for free. This can be a significant savings in time and effort particularly when locating books from small publishers, governments and associations.
- Cataloguing services are provided for free. Also, each book is entered into the College Library's online catalogue (<http://szasz.mls.cpsbc.ca>). Contact the Library for more information.

Recent and Recommended Books is the result of a collaborative effort by College Library staff. Elaine Buonsante and Marcia Bilinsky prepared the data and organized printing and distribution. Karen MacDonell and Linda Clendenning compiled and edited the content.
